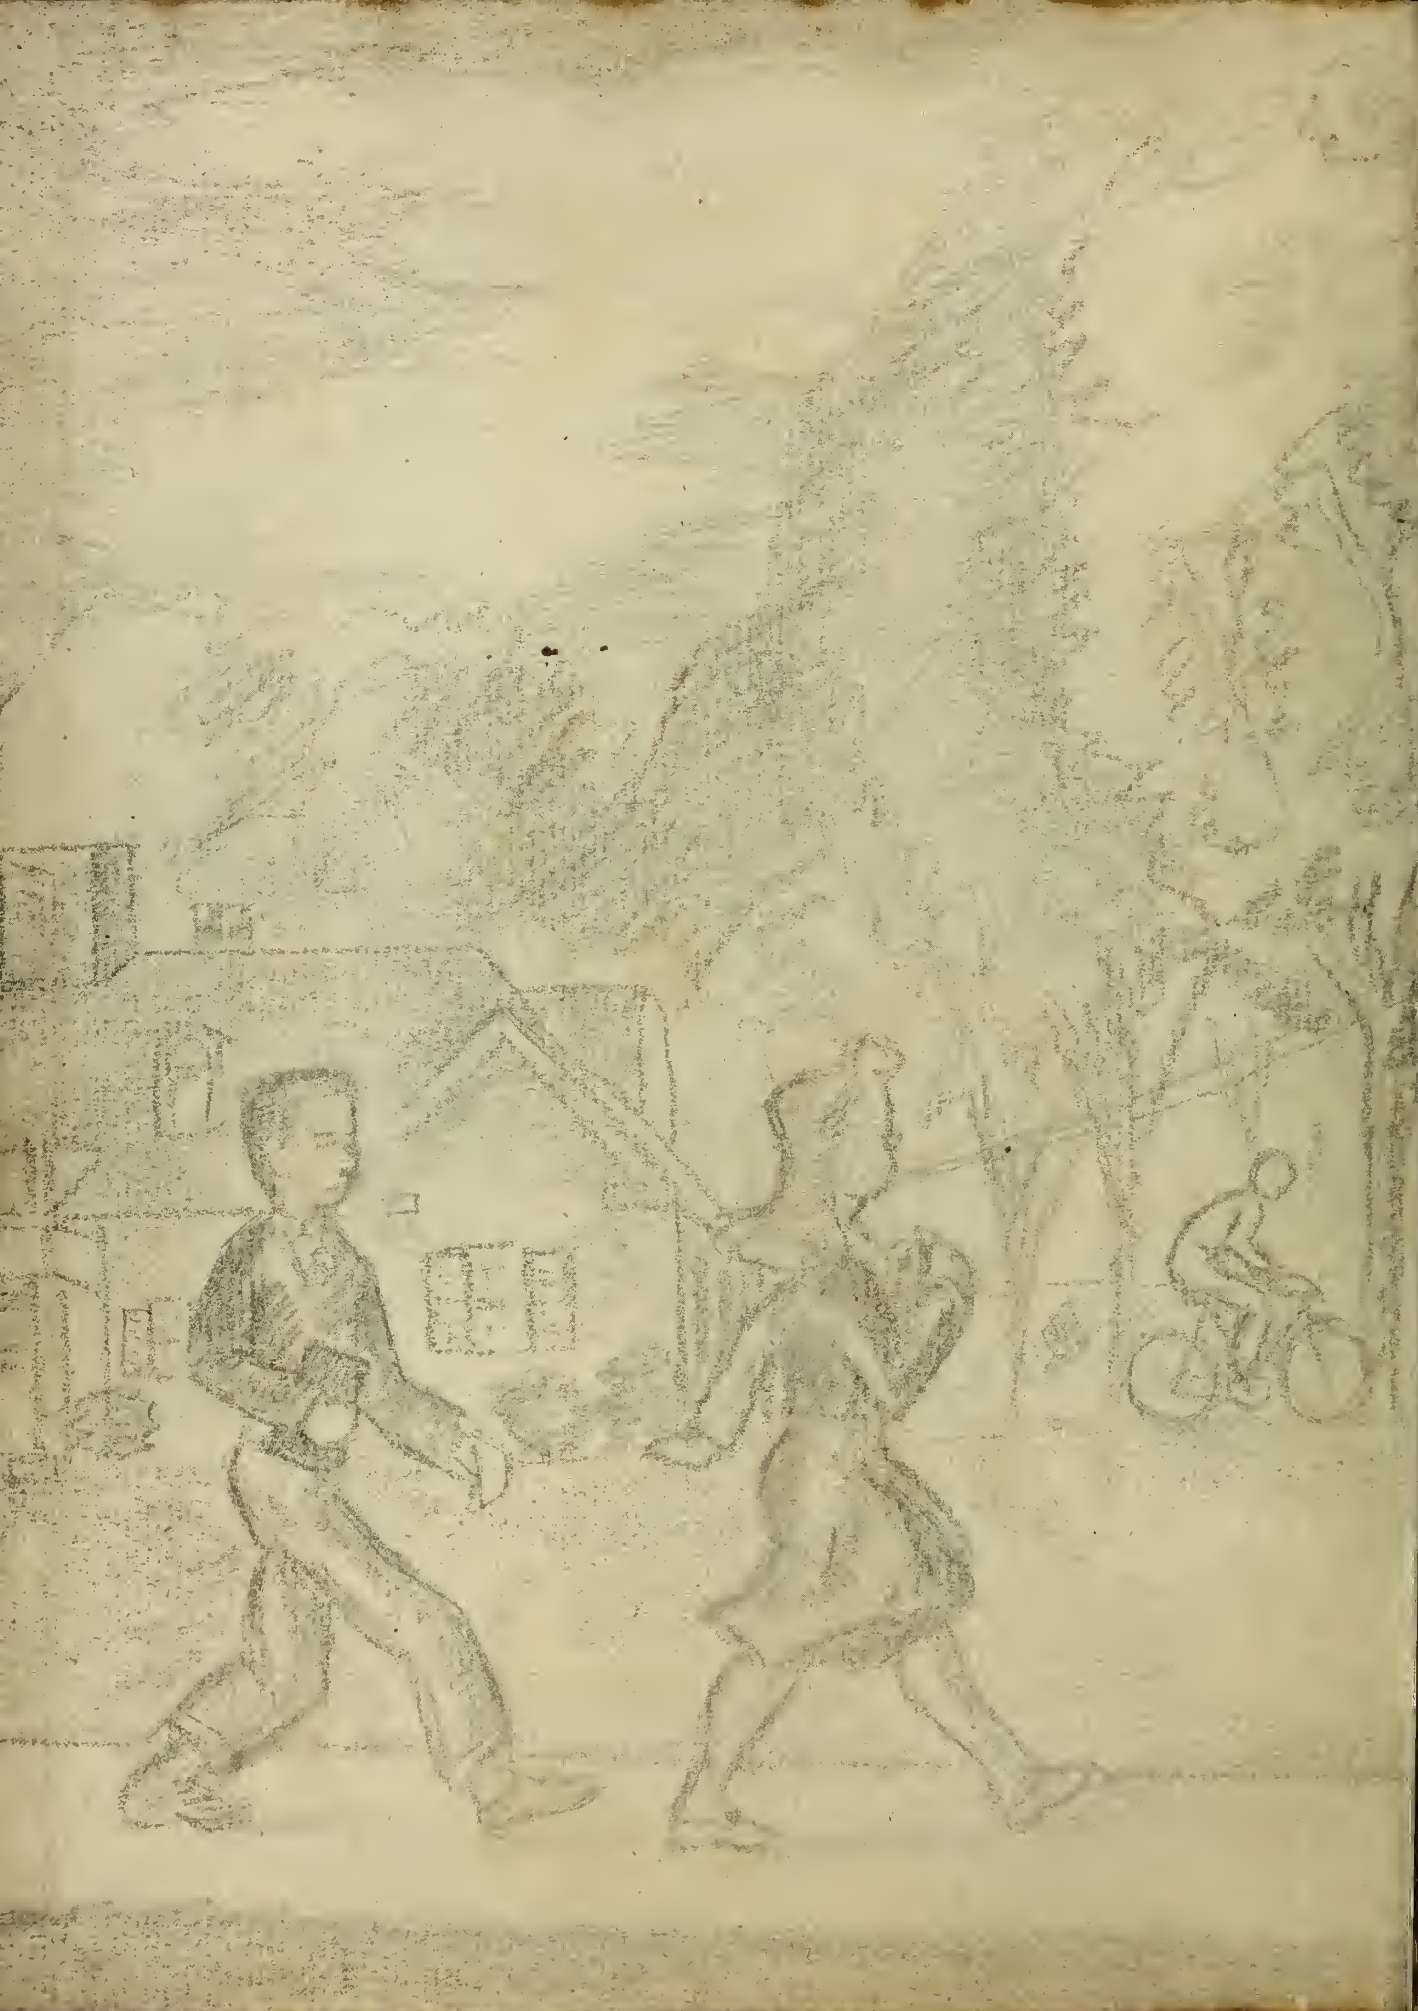
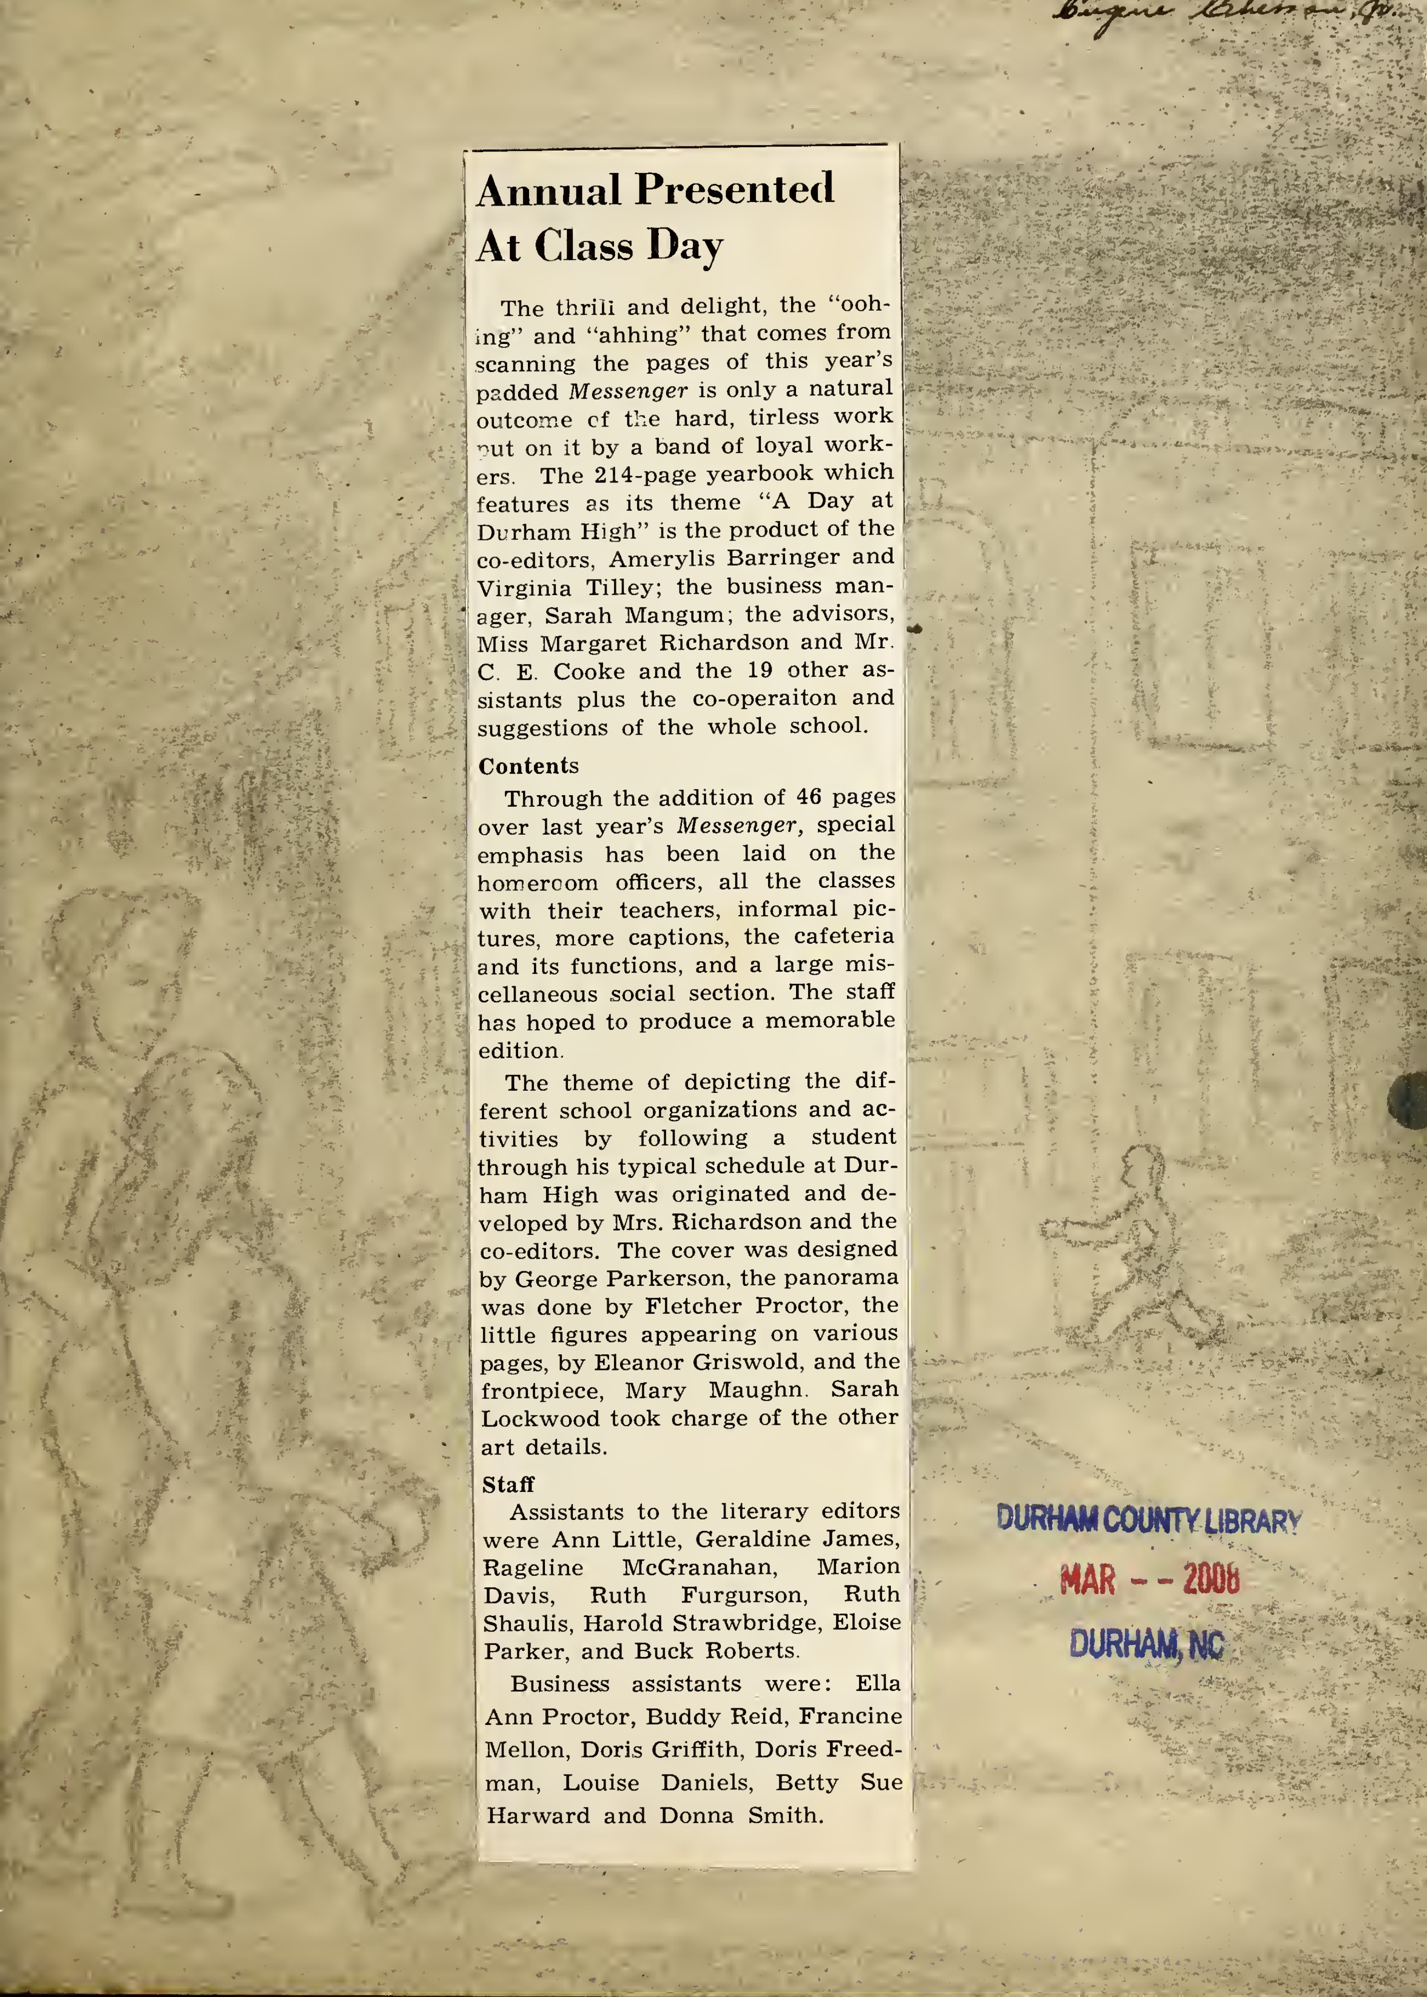
MESSENGER



Eugene [illegible] Jr.



Annual Presented At Class Day

The thrill and delight, the "oohing" and "ahhing" that comes from scanning the pages of this year's padded Messenger is only a natural outcome of the hard, tirless work put on it by a band of loyal workers. The 214-page yearbook which features as its theme "A Day at Durham High" is the product of the co-editors, Amerylis Barringer and Virginia Tilley; the business manager, Sarah Mangum; the advisors, Miss Margaret Richardson and Mr. C. E. Cooke and the 19 other assistants plus the co-operaiton and suggestions of the whole school.

Contents

Through the addition of 46 pages over last year's Messenger, special emphasis has been laid on the homeroom officers, all the classes with their teachers, informal pictures, more captions, the cafeteria and its functions, and a large miscellaneous social section. The staff has hoped to produce a memorable edition.

The theme of depicting the different school organizations and activities by following a student through his typical schedule at Durham High was originated and developed by Mrs. Richardson and the co-editors. The cover was designed by George Parkerson, the panorama was done by Fletcher Proctor, the little figures appearing on various pages, by Eleanor Griswold, and the frontpiece, Mary Maughn. Sarah Lockwood took charge of the other art details.

Staff

Assistants to the literary editors were Ann Little, Geraldine James, Rageline McGranahan, Marion Davis, Ruth Furgurson, Ruth Shaulis, Harold Strawbridge, Eloise Parker, and Buck Roberts.

Business assistants were: Ella Ann Proctor, Buddy Reid, Francine Mellon, Doris Griffith, Doris Freedman, Louise Daniels, Betty Sue Harward and Donna Smith.

Dedication

In appreciation of his inspiring ideals, friendly counsel, untiring labor and faith in us, we the class of nineteen forty-five dedicate this issue of the Messenger to a most gracious and inspiring character, who, as director of the Commercial Department, gave twenty-seven years of unselfish service and devotion to the students of Durham High School, who, through her influence, have become community builders.

Mr. C. E. Cooke

In memory of

We of the Messenger staff invite you to go with us through a typical day at Durham High School. The axle on which the system revolves consists of the joint efforts of the administration, Board of Education, and the student winders of the clock. Their accomplishments are reflected in the following pages.

Endeavoring to portray the students at work and play, by following a day's schedule, we have included classes and activities.

Varied curricular and extracurricular schedules allow the students here to develop their individual interests. In this way they prepare themselves for future life work.

With "Johnny" and "Jane" as typical students of Durham High School, we shall start on our journey "around the clock"—a day at dear ol' Durham High.

Student Winders of The Clock

At Durham High School the individual home room is the heart of the entire system. Its officers are chosen semi-annually and the presidents constitute the first and second semester student councils.

Individual home rooms this year have sponsored various programs for the two assemblies. They also head the numerous campaigns held during the year and have been outstanding in their aid in boosting this year's war-bond drive.

All this proves that Durham High School's home rooms merit the name of "Student Winders of the Clock."

DURHAM HI GOES TO CLASS

While Johnny goes to the Library to study

FLORINE LEWTER, Director

Any patron of the library would readily affirm that Miss Lewter and her student library assistants have done their share to help realize the general goal of the library, "To supply reference and supplementary material for the students and teachers, and at the same time, to teach every pupil the use of such material."

Library Instruction is given to all sophomores. Such topics as the Dewey Decimal Classification, the card catalog, use of reference books, and the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature are presented.

Relaxation, as well as information on all types of subjects, is offered by the library to students who may go there at any period of the day.

and Jane attends her Bible Class,

Frances C. Query, Director

Durham High School has Bible classes for both first and second year students. During these two years the students study the history of the Old Testament, learn how it came to be written and all about the surrounding factors that prompted the writing. This study enables the students to become more familiar with the background of the Old Testament. Also during these two years a study is made of poetry, drama and the minor prophets; and of differences in our modern arts and those in the time of Christ.

Here students are becoming more familiar with Biblical history.

Durham High School's Mathematics Department offers courses in Plane and Solid Geometry, Algebra, and Trigonometry. The course in algebra gives an excellent foundation for college algebra and physics. One who has taken solid geometry and trigonometry is well prepared for engineering, and all types of mechanical drawing.

Working on "black or white," these students are learning their algebra.

Home Economics

Although all courses in the Home-Economics Department (whether in cooking or in sewing), are optional, a girl who takes advantage of this subject is forever grateful for the training she receives in the "cottage."

Home-Economics is the only course for girls taught outside of the Durham High School building; the cottage provides a place for the girls to learn how to "make a home." Cooking and sewing are stressed during the two-year course.

While their teachers, Frances Woolworth, Director, and Grace Haynes, enjoy a cup of coffee, the girls in cooking class are preparing their evening meal.

Art Department

MARY L. MASON, Director

At Durham High the Art Department offers an excellent course for those students who desire training in designing and other lines of art work. Although this part of the regular curricular is not compulsory, through three years of the high school art course, the students contribute much to the school by making posters to advertise various socials, plays, and other activities. Mrs. Mason's art groups have also contributed a great deal to both high school publications, the Hi-Rocket and the MESSENGER.

Four years of Latin, two years of French, and two years of Spanish are available in the Durham High School Language Department. None of these courses are required in the regular curricular; however, a large percentage of the students here take advantage of at least one of these subjects.

We realize that now, more than ever, we need a knowledge of foreign languages. That same knowledge is available right here at Durham High School.

Commercial Department

In Durham High School, the Commercial Department is known for the excellently trained students it offers the business world each year.

The curricula includes two years of shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping, and one year of office practice.

The foremost aim of the Commercial Department is to render service. Its interest is not confined to serving the students alone, but also, through the students, the community and school.

Another aim is to instill in each student accuracy, dependability, and honesty. The teachers of the course realize that no commercial subject is of any value without these three qualities.

To further the interest of the students, department contests are held each year. Certificates are awarded to first- and second-place contestants and to the winning teams.

Music Department

Music theory, a newly added course in Durham High School's Music Department, endeavors to teach the elements of music. In the Music Department here, the instructor tries to give students an exact knowledge of the substance of music, a well-trained ear, the ability to do with the eye what is ordinarily done by the ear, a thoroughly developed rhythmic sense, and a sound and discriminating musical taste.

One division of the Music Department, the Band, is the largest musical group of the school. At our football games and assembly programs, we can depend on the band to render excellent service.

The Mixed Chorus consists of both boys and girls from all the different music classes. At several assemblies this year they rendered special musical selections.

The curricula of Durham High School provides, through the History Department, instruction in the following subjects: Ancient and Medieval History, Modern European History, which are optional, and American History, which is required for graduation. Also, the following social studies are offered as optional courses, each given for a semester, earning one-half unit toward graduation: Commercial Geography, American Government, Economics, and Sociology.

Liberal provision for a well-rounded individual is the objective in such a rich curriculum. Recognizing the generally accepted aims of modern education, this department undertakes to attain as many of these aims as possible.

public speaking is stressed in English Class.

English Department

English Department: Loie Christie, Mary Jane Edwards, Mary Elizabeth Suitt, Marguerite M. Herr, Director, Belle Hampton, Frances Briggs.

The English course required each year in Durham High includes a study of the literature, grammar, oral and written composition, good usage, spelling, and punctuation adapted to the needs and the ability of the group.

To supplement needs, to develop special interests, and to build other types of appreciation, units on the use of the library, the dictionary, dramatizations, word origins, radio and movie programs, journalistic writing, public speaking, book reporting, victrola recordings, and journalistic forms are offered.

The immediate aim is improving habits of expression, and the choice of books to inform, comfort, and inspire.

Paul G. Sykes, Director, Nell S. Leitner, A. Seaton Holt

Physical Education Department

Miss Nell Leitner, Mr. P. G. Sykes, and Mr. Seaton Holt have developed a splendid physical education department. Their work is very important from the standpoint of educational benefits.

Physical education tends to educate the mind and body by developing physical skills and interests, by desire for wholesome association and recreation, and by promoting good character and qualities required for leadership. This brings out in a student the elements of team play, sportsmanship, cooperation, honesty, self-control, leadership, and the ability to get along with others. In fact, in physical education a student experiences life situations—success and failure, struggle or opposition, group living, and learning to get along with other people. The aim and desire of our physical education department is to make the students physically, mentally, and morally fit so they will be good citizens in their communities.

In order to make them physically fit and to prepare them for future military service, gym is offered to the boys five times a week. The girls have gym only twice a week.

To carry out the physical education program, physical examinations were given at Watts Hospital for all sophomore boys and girls to discover any defects which might be present. Follow-up work will be done during their junior and senior years to find out if all defects have been corrected.

Industrial Education Department

Machine Shop, Sheet Metal Work, Woodwork, Radio, Mechanical Drawing, and Milling Machine Shop are the courses offered in the Industrial Education Department at Durham High School. Although none of these courses are compulsory, boys and girls take advantage of this excellent training in their high school curricula to be that much better informed when they graduate from Durham High. Classes in the above courses are held in the Durham High School Shop, except for sheet metal work which is taught in the Junior High School Shop.

Nowadays when there is such a demand for skilled workers in special fields, the training a person can get right here at Durham High School can be of great value to him.

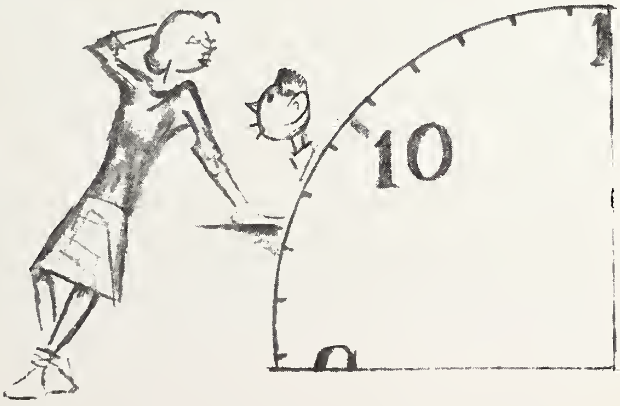
DURHAM HI ATTENDS VARIOUS ACTIVITIES



Extra-curricular Activities

Innumerable opportunities are offered to the students in the form of extra-curricular activities. These activities are presented to the students in an appealing manner, and they may take advantage of them if they wish.

By means of this program the school strives to instill in the boys and girls the invaluable qualities of leadership, citizenship, and sportsmanship to the end that they may be better citizens.

The spirit of cooperation, which develops from the membership in these clubs, proves to be a valuable asset in the students' life in school as well as outside. In taking part in the programs and in shouldering his share of the responsibility, the student displays his ability to accept a job and do it well.

Among the activities offered are the literary societies, the miscellaneous clubs, the Hi-Rocket, and the MESSENGER. From the literary societies' programs much information is gained concerning great works of literature and famous authors. Thé miscellaneous clubs include the foreign language and the dramatics clubs. These are very popular with the students. The school's two publications, the Hi-Rocket and the MESSENGER, are also edited by the students and serve as an example of their talent and ability.

The Messenger Staff

The Hi-Rocket Staff

Again the Hi-Rocket has been awarded the gold medal, the highest honor offered by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, in the national contest this year, with a victory star for outstanding aid in the war effort through its columns. It is published under the guidance of advisers, by the students who may have the freedom to publish what they want, provided it is constructive, original, clear, and preserves the standards of expression for which the best in journalism calls.

Through the theme of the MESSENGER this year, we have tried to show all curricula and extra-curricula activities available by taking you through a day here at Durham High. If you find pleasure and enjoyment glancing through this book in years to come our aims will have been accomplished. We hope you like it—your 1945 edition of the MESSENGER.

SOCIETY

Literary Societies

Semi-monthly, when miscellaneous clubs are not meeting, the various literary societies gather in their respective places to conduct their programs.

Boys and girls have separate societies so that they can pursue special interests. But in all groups, the chief aim is to bring out individual student talent through participation on the programs.

Public speaking, training in debate, and the study of international affairs are three main objectives of the literary societies. The study of the lives of famous authors interests one group.

Such mottoes as "The truth shall make you free," and "Let knowledge grow; let life be enriched" are typical of the spirit of Durham High Literary Societies of 1945.

Dramatics Clubs

To stress the fundamentals of acting and other phases of dramatics at Durham High, there are four Dramatics Clubs—the Mummers, the Playmakers, the Mimics, and the Thespians.

Students participating in the Mummers strive to become more skillful as actors, and those interested in stagework and make-up gain valuable experience through membership in this club.

To write original skits and afterwards to act them are the two main objectives of the Mimics Dramatics Club. Training in public speaking as well as good acting ability is stressed.

The Thespians lived up to their name, which was taken from a Greek word meaning "actor" through its aim to acquaint each member with the art of acting.

Although members of the Playmakers were primarily interested in acting, several showed special interest in make-up and attended the demonstration at the State Dramatics Festival in Chapel Hill.

All of these dramatics clubs are represented in their governing factor, the Dramatics Council. Although newly organized, the council has combined the talent of all the dramatics clubs very successfully.

Cordelia Vinson, Ara Boothe, Vernel Williams, Bailey Hobgood, Addison Trice, Eloise Parker, Sarah Taylor, Eleanor Allen

Adviser:
FRANCES BRIGGS

One adviser and two students from each of the dramatics clubs at Durham High constitute the Dramatics Council. This is the first year a successful attempt has been made to unify the individual clubs under one council. In this way, instead of presenting four small one-act plays, the dramatics clubs were able to combine their talents and present a three-act musical comedy, "Hi Soldier."

Susie goes to Foreign Language Clubs

Among the clubs in Durham High there is a group dealing with the foreign languages taught, French, Spanish, and Latin. These clubs have done much to further the study of languages and to increase and improve the students' knowledge of them and of the countries in which they are spoken.

In the French Club a great deal of progress has been made in the study of France and French customs. French is still one of the most beautiful and widely-spoken languages in the world. The club has proved very effective in its purpose to understand it and the French people better.

This same purpose is fulfilled in the Spanish and Latin clubs. Spanish is becoming more important everyday because of the relations with North and South America. Therefore, every particle of information available to the students is increasingly valuable. Latin, being the basis of all the Romance languages is a very helpful foundation for their study. The Latin Club gives an opportunity for more extensive study of Roman History and literature than can be explained in regular classroom work.

French Club

Adviser: Martha Patrick

Seated: P. Ligon, B. Kuykendall, L. Daniels. Standing: G. Whetstone, B. S. Harward.

Contrary to its usual custom, the French Club initiated its new members at the end of the first six weeks this year. With this larger membership, the group enjoyed many informative and amusing programs which increased their knowledge of French customs and language. One of the highlights of the year was a play presented in the auditorium, a French version of "The Three Bears." The closing of the year was marked by a banquet and the presentation of the medal to the most outstanding senior.

Latin Club

Adviser: Loie C. Christie

The purpose of the Latin Club is to vivify the study of Latin, and to supply the supplementary work so necessary to our appreciation of Rome's gift to us, but for which there is neither time nor materials in the classroom. Although its membership has dwindled to a mere half-dozen this year, the real enthusiasts who remain continue to enjoy programs full of spice and variety, as well as instruction.

The Latin Club of the Durham High School has this year become the Durham Chapter of the Junior Classical League, sponsored by The American Classical League whose headquarters are at Vanderbilt University.

Some of his classmates go to Science Clubs

For the benefit of pupils interested in any form of science, there are three clubs to which they may belong: the Camera Club for those whose mutual interest is photography; the Nature Study Club for students who enjoy nature; and the Phy-Chem Club for pupils who have a definite interest in chemistry and physics.

The Camera Club has achieved its main purpose so far this year, that of furthering the member's knowledge of photography. These boys have grasped the idea of trick photography, indoor portraits, paper negatives, kinds of cameras, correct use of the camera, and the use of darkroom equipment. They have learned, as a result, that taking a picture is more than just clicking the shutter; it is an art, an art of focusing and lighting.

The three purposes of the Nature Study Club are: to stimulate interest in plant and animal life; to develop appreciation of Nature; and to give an outlet for individual experiments. The highlights of this year's activities was the visit to Duke University where the Electronic Microscope was explained in full to the club members. At one meeting an interesting lecture on "Wild Flowers of North Carolina" was given by Dr. Blomquist.

In the Phy-Chem Club, students have carried out experiments, and participated in discussions of interesting physics and chemistry news. In the latter part of the year, Dr. Andrews of the School of Medicine, University of North Carolina, presented a talk on "Chemistry and Medicine."

Jane goes to Commercial Club

The Commercial Club, one of the largest in the school, is widely known for its excellent monthly programs which are arranged by the club cabinet and Miss Boland, adviser. The outstanding program of the year was "The Easter Parade," at which time all dramatics clubs and the French Club were guests. Other program topics were "Take It or Leave It" and a "Community Sing."

This year the club, with the aid of the alumni, presented a memorial to the school for Miss Ethel M. Solloway, who was adviser of the club for 23 years.

In the spring, the usual social was not held for the seniors. Instead, an old-fashioned barn dance was given for the entire Commercial Club.

The controlling factor of the club is the Cabinet. It is composed of the club officers and representatives from each commercial class. This group keeps each class informed as to the activities and progress of the club.

Susie goes to Miscellaneous Clubs

Included in the Miscellaneous Clubs are the Hi-Y, Current Events, Library, Art, Elliott Math, Boys' and Girls' Monogram, Bible, Music, Ellen H. Richards, and Needlework Guild.

Membership in the Boys' and Girls' Monogram Clubs is attained through points acquired in sportsmanship and leadership. They offer the opportunity of fellowship with boys and girls of like interests.

The Hi-Y Club gives the boys a chance for civic service; community work for the betterment of themselves and their city. Current Events Club encourages boys' interest in local, state, national, and world affairs.

Volunteering services in the Library automatically makes one a member of the Library Club. The members strive to help each student prepare himself for future work.

Acquiring a better appreciation of art from all aspects is the major interest of the Art Club.

Students in the Ellen H. Richards Club obtain poise and self-confidence as well as a knowledge of preparation for an attractive home, while members of the club. Whereas, the Needlework Guild gives a girl the opportunity to help the needy, orphanages, and nurseries.

Members of the Bible Club obtain a wider view of their religion's belief and the background of the churches.

The Music Club offers an opportunity for a student to learn more about the various phases of both classical and semi-classical music.

Membership in any of the foregoing clubs promises a wide range of activity to all students at Durham High.

A great deal of progress has been made during the past year in the Elliott Math Club. The programs have consisted of a study of the history of mathematics, its application, and its beneficial qualities. At each meeting, interesting problems, mathematical tricks, and puzzles were presented. A joint social with the Latin Club was held in May. To climax the year's activities, Dr. W. W. Rankin, in his annual address, described the things one must put into mathematics to derive the fullest benefit.

The thirteenth annual ingathering of the Junior Auxiliary Needlework Guild of Durham netted 645 garments for needy children under 2 years of age, and a contribution of $24.15 to the shoe fund, the largest in the history of the guild for the number of the girls included.

The organization meeting, at which over 300 girls volunteered, was followed by the election of 9 officers and 27 directors; the ingathering at high school was held in the upper cafeteria. Both garments and money were displayed in the downtown ingathering of the entire Durham guild.

DURHAM HI GOES TO LUNCH

Johnny attends the Student Council

Adviser: C. E. Cooke

Projects: Hall Patrol during the three lunch periods with a supervisor for each lunch. At present there are 59 home room officers serving on this vital project. They keep order in the halls, paper off of ground, and they prevent breaking into the lunch lines. Armbands (with D.H.S. printed on them) signify membership in the Hall Patrol. Students have begun to realize their responsibility, thus more can be accomplished.

The Varsity Football Dance: held in school gym on Friday night, December 1, from 8:30 to 11 o'clock. It was sponsored by the Council.

Christmas for Wright's Refuge: (December 24, 1944). A committee of three bought gifts, fruits, and nuts for the children at the Refuge. Approximately $75 was collected from the school. A War Stamp Book with 3 ten cent stamps in each book was given to every child.

War Stamps and Bonds Campaigns: the booth in the front hall sells the stamps and bonds during activity and lunch periods. The goal, set at $15,000, is being reached by home room and class contests.

The Crusades, a moving picture, was sponsored in the auditorium on April 24 with the admission of 15 cents per person. All proceeds went into the Student Council Treasury.

Mrs. Anne Llewellyn, Manager

Cafeteria

Calling students to lunch actually needs but one summons, although here at Durham High three periods are reserved to accommodate the classes.

Despite the present-day shortage of food, Mrs. Llewellyn continued to plan delicious menus for her "children."

At one time, due to the lack of helpers, it seemed that the Cafeteria would be forced to close, but by their voluntary services, several girls made it possible for her to carry on in the Cafeteria.

Cafeteria helpers keep the counters well supplied as students select their lunches.

"Everybody happy!" in the inside lunch line before eating "hot lunch."

Buck reminds J. B.: "Correct change, please."

Each in his own turn gets that long-awaited food in the outside lunch line.

Football

Durham High Bulldogs scored three victories over Burlington and Hillsboro in the season's openers and a third game which Raleigh forfeited.

Next the Bulldogs journeyed to Greensboro, High Point, and Wilson, suffering their first defeats to High Point's Black Bisons, and Wilson's "Cyclones."

After the selection of Buck Cheek and Jimmy Baynes as co-captains the Bulldogs had another streak of victories over Fayetteville, 18-6, and the "gridders" of Goldsboro.

The loss of the Rocky Mount game, 20-6, dampened their hopes of an Eastern Championship title, but nevertheless, they pulled the curtain on a successful season, by a smashing victory over Wilmington.

A football banquet in which 25 boys received stars or letters and a dance following in their honor climaxed colorful football at "old Durham High."

Basketball, the king of indoor sports, reigned again throughout the winter months at Durham High. This year's team was destined to do great things: first, because they had Coach Paul Sykes, whose impressive record of six state championships has not only placed him among the best coaches in the state, but has also won for Durham High's Basketball Team national recognition; second, because four lettermen returned; and third, because several boys, who encountered some action last year, were there to give hearty support as reserves.

With a rigid fourteen game schedule they practiced hard, fought hard, and won all their games except for one defeat by the basketeers of Raleigh.

Chosen to compete in the State Championship game at Chaple Hill, they lost to a splendid Greensboro team, but they still held the admiration of everyone for their "fight to the last" spirit.

Track

Coach BAUCOM

With track practice beginning in middle March, the Durham High track team was in good condition for its rigid program of fourteen different events. The cindermen met and conquered their first opponent, Greensboro—Coach C. P. Baucom, one of North Carolina's foremost track instructors, was well pleased.

But the following weeks of intensive training, the "blood, sweat, and tears" which resulted in two hard-hitting defeats for the team by Raleigh's trackmen did not dishearten them.

More practice followed and the reward of this hard work came when Durham walked off with second place honors at the State Championship Track Meet held in Chapel Hill, May 5.

Durwood Powell, Henry Bullock, Halstead Holden, Burt Overton, Buck Cheek, R. L. McDonald, Leroy McLeod, Whit Cobb, Donovan Warren, Albert Spain, and Bill Whitford stand as outstanding cindermen for the year; Clarence Johnson and Melvin Dennis, as outstanding managers.

Baseball

Coach Holt

Baseball, the daddy of American Sports, was enjoyed not only by the 25 boys participating this year, but also by the crowds of Durham High fans, who watched intently the baseball practices and games with other schools.

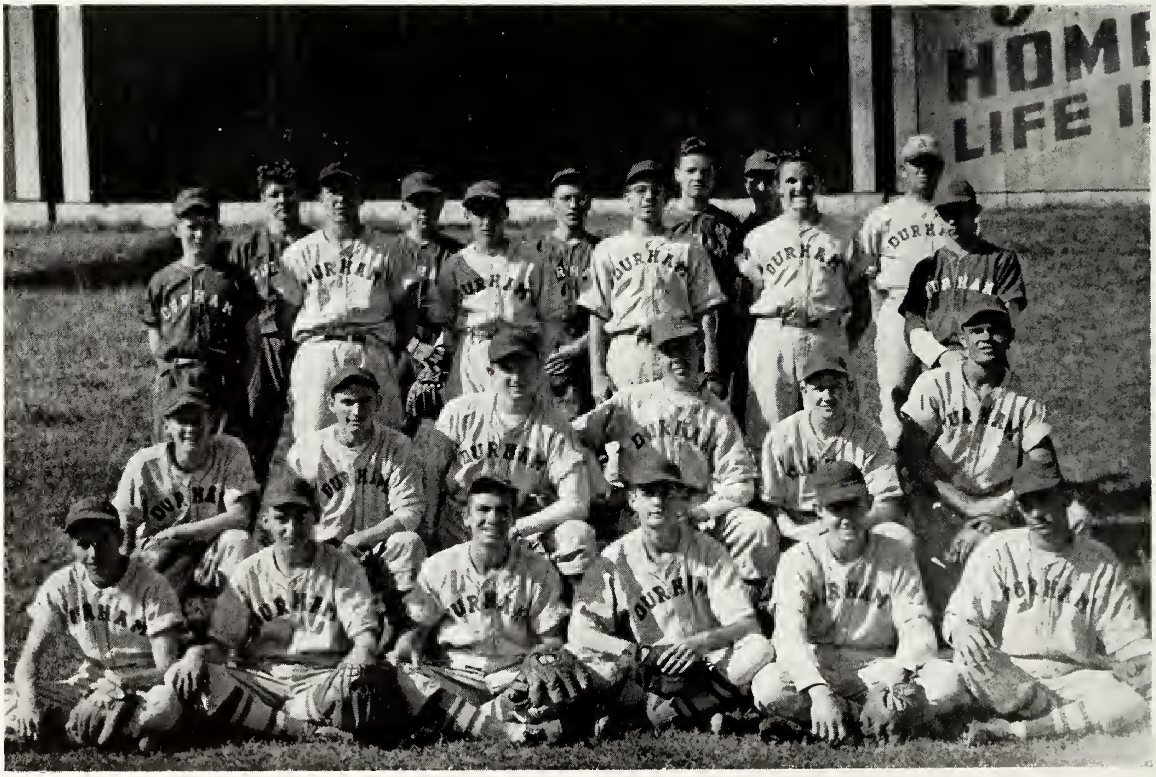
The fact that only two experienced players returned did not hamper the fighting spirit shown by the Bulldog baseball players in their defeats as well as their victories.

Coach Seaton Holt, who did wonders with the team, Captain Tommy Daniels, and all the other players should be congratulated for promoting the baseball season so remarkably well.

The games played, the opponents, and the scores are:

Durham	3–10	Goldsboro
Durham	5–6	Rocky Mount
Durham	10–6	Wilmington
Durham	3–9	Goldsboro
Durham	8–4	Rocky Mount
Durham	7–9	Wilson
Durham	6–9	Raleigh

The second games with Raleigh, Wilson, and Wilmington have not been played as the Messenger goes to press.



First row: R. Tharrington, C. Hackney, B. House, E. Ross, D. Carden, Z. Downey. Second row: F. Coghill, T. Daniels, E. King, E. Gates, J. Andrews, B. Stokes. Third row: J. Jackson, B. Colvard, D. Durham High's tennis team went over by "leaps and bounds" this year, triumphantly defeating Norfolk 7–2, Burlington 9–0, Danville 6–3, and Norfolk again 9–0.

Co-captains Whit Cobb and Jimmy Baynes as the star players of the double matches and Tony Reed, the star single player, formed the nucleus of the team. Other outstanding netmen were Bernice Rigsbee, Tommy Southerland, Bobby Fairey, and Duncan Nelson. Edward Shank with Tommy Southerland assisting acted as manager.

In looking over the colorful tennis season, P. G. Sykes, tennis coach, cannot be overestimated. His genuine knowledge of tennis, plus his capable supervision made the team a sure winner.

As the MESSENGER goes to press no official score on the Tennis Championship Game at Winston-Salem has been made.

Golf

Golf at Durham High School requires more patience and skill than the sheer athletic endurance needed for the numerous other sports. This is possibly why Jennings Agner, captain, and Edward Green, Bobby Hayes, and Page Harris proved so successful in the various golf tournaments. Their last year's experience under former coach E. C. Hester resulted in their victories over Greensboro, 13–5, and twice over Burlington, 14½–3½, and 9½–9½. The team also made a three-day journey to Greenville where they chalked up a 6th place at the Southern Atlantic.

Tournament: The results of the State Tournament at High Point has not been announced as the MESSENGER goes to press.

Andy Merrlee, Hillandale Golf Manager, served as a capable coach for this team.

Through their extensive program of intramural sports, the Girls' Athletic Association taught sportsmanship, cooperation, leadership.

Every member tried to become physically fit in order to render effective service to her country when the need should come. The GAA also hoped to establish in each girl good habits and principles of living which throughout her school life and in later years would aid in providing that important foundation so necessary for a happy personal, family, and community life.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt

Our President Roosevelt will live in history as long as history is written or read. He will be remembered as a leader in a great war—not merely a war against the Germans and the Japanese, but a far greater war,—a war against fear, a war against poverty, a war against oppression.

No leader has ever been so close to his people, such a beloved part of them. Franklin Roosevelt was bitterly opposed and hated by the despisers of liberty, by men too narrow-minded to see beyond the present. But harsh criticism never affected the warmth of his love for humanity. The tragedy of his own affliction enkindled his sympathy toward the weak and helpless. Oppressed people the world over looked toward him as their champion, as their last ray of hope in a dark world.

Franklin Roosevelt still lives—he lives in the hearts and minds of freedom loving peoples throughout the earth. As long as the flame of liberty burns in the soul of mankind, as long as the human race strives for a better world, as long as men are united by bonds of friendship and peace, Franklin Roosevelt will never die!!!!

The Sophomore Class

Durham High points with pride to the following pages in which appear the members of the 1945 Sophomore Class. Its officers and the 355 members have spent a great deal of time and effort in making this class one of Durham High School's most outstanding.

This class was composed of capable student groups from Central, East Durham, and E. K. Powe Junior High Schools that were just "bubbling over" with talent and ideas. They came to Durham High and with the help and interest of Juniors and Seniors, they immediately became active student body members. Through their class, they gave wholehearted support to the war-bond drive, purchasing a total of $7,567.80 and to the Community Chest Drive, donating $79.38.

Their unique class programs and their fun-packed Christmas Parties made many "perk up" and "take a look."

Climaxing their year's activities, the Sophomores presented a feature length movie to the school, and the proceeds went to a closing class dance.

The Sophomores' service in making this a memorable year will not go unrecognized, and their prospects as successful school leaders the next two years are bright.

The Junior Class

The class of '46 has completed its second successful year at Durham High. The Juniors worked hard and, with the assistance of Whit Cobb, president, Miss Edwards and Miss Briggs, advisers, were able to carry on their usual activities.

They did not put on a play to raise money for the Junior-Senior Social this year but instead sponsored a Fashion Show for the entire student body.

Although only two Junior boys, Paul Conklin and Carl Varner, went into the armed services this year, on the home front the boys of the class have been wide awake to their duties.

The good work accomplished in its sophomore year was not neglected. During the sophomore year the class devoted most of its time and effort helping with campaigns and war bond sales to boost the war effort. Keeping up the excellent standards of former Junior classes, this present one has made an excellent scholastic record.

The class of '46 has realized the seriousness of becoming dignified seniors and if they keep up the good work they have started, they will make one of the finest senior classes ever to graduate from Durham High.

The Senior Class

The class of '45 is a war class. It had its beginning in 1941, the year of our entry in the war. Throughout the four years from then to now, all thought and time possible has been spent in helping with the war effort. The war has been brought close to the students since many of them left to join the Armed Forces. Also, several have returned to re-enter school after service for their country.

Under the leadership of the president, Harry Watkins, the class has carried on its business in an efficient manner, sponsoring bond campaigns, clothing collections, and salvages of all sorts. It also presented the play, Come Rain or Shine to the school body and the public.

New Horizons

The opportunities which lie just over the horizon are, perhaps, more promising and exciting than at any time in history. Science, Chemistry, Engineering, Electronics, Metallurgy, Plastics, Aviation—the very words have a thrilling sound. The war has created new activity and development in every one of these fields.

If you have chosen one of them as you own field of endeavor, we at The Fidelity wish you every success. Yes, and if, through our varied financial services, we can be of assistance to you, it would be a genuine pleasure to do so.
